MORE

At the height of the pandemic last spring, Stanley Bergman helped produce 28 million surgical masks, 22 million gloves, and 18 million gowns and coveralls, with an eye toward socially responsible and sustainable business. Bergman is the longtime CEO of Henry Schein Inc., which provides health care products and services to dental and medical practitioners. When the Covid-19 pandemic tested the global supply chain for personal protective equipment, Bergman mobilized Henry Schein and established a "Covid-19 Resource Center" as a central location for communications, resources, videos and education. The company topped $10 billion in sales in 2020. Bergman is on the board of numerous local institutions, including New York University College of Dentistry and the Metropolitan Opera.
